Explanation of order

Most of these papers were not in a discernible or consistent original order. Many of them were, however, fixed together in files or with pins and staples, and the removal of some of these shows that club officials have made some attempt at re-organisation. There was a trace of chronological order in some of the arrangements, largely on a week-to-week matchy basis, but this meant that papers of very different kinds were lumped together. Moreover, it was impossible to group many of the papers in this way, since some clearly belong to non-chronological categories and others lack either full identification or an obvious context.

Club officials had no recognisable record-keeping system. Arrangement seems to have been based on three main criteria: documents present on the official's desk on the same day (which were simply stapled together); administrative business (especially related to particular organisations and groups of individuals); and financial business. As a result, disregarding the ad hoc arrangements, the papers can be seen to divide broadly into Secretary's Papers and Treasurer's Papers. It is important to note the lack of a clear underlying pattern, which may reflect the week-to-week nature of football club administration and a lack of emphasis upon organised record keeping.

The papers have been bundled rather than listed individually because of the number of papers involved, the fact that it is possible to arrange them into coherent groups, and the impossibility of minute sub-division. Patterns of arrangement (including numbered series) were visible in some original bundles, but these were far from consistent; many series did not include documents which they logically ought to have, or else did include documents which were related so loosely that the reason for their inclusion was unclear. Even numbered series lacked a clear logical basis, since they were neither chronological, subject-based or arranged for administrative convenience. Most series are also incomplete.
Numerous 'classes' of documents are present in these papers, although this was not necessarily reflected in their original order. Classification was difficult because many documents are unique, or lack dates, or refer to several subjects, or even lack any means of identification whatsoever. Moreover, the contents of documents in different 'classes' very often overlap, due to the week-to-week nature of administration and the fact that many administrative functions and types of information were lumped together in varying ways and in different formats.

To retain the papers' original order would merely have led to confusion regarding administrative classes, chronology and subject matter, and it would have made nothing clear other than the lack of a record-keeping system. Whilst the original order has been retained where it was logical and seemed to reflect the functions of club officers, the order in the list is largely artificial, being based on administrative functions rather than the club's ad hoc needs. This was essential in the interests of producing a meaningful finding aid.
Caernarfon Town Football Club was founded in 1876 as the Carnarvon Athletic Club. These papers relate to the period following the club’s successes of the 1940s, and cover all aspects of administration, including committee work, correspondence with the Supporters’ Club and other football clubs, correspondence with players and club members, financial accounts and receipts, official League and Association records and correspondence, and general administration and notes. The subjects covered are very varied, and include fixtures, maintenance of the Oval ground, details relating to players, match details, and miscellaneous other administrative business. During this period, the club erected a new stand (in 1952), purchased the Oval (in 1958), appointed a team manager for the first time (in 1959), and ran into considerable debt (in 1961). On the field, the team set club goal-scoring records in 1955/56 and 1956/57, and reached the semi-finals of the Welsh Cup in 1958, whilst there were amateur international caps for one player and interest from Manchester United, Aston Villa and Wrexham in another.
